One Fish

Never before have so many Victorians come to see so little. More than 30,000 people jammed Goldstream River banks during Sunday to see salmon run in the water released by the Victoria Water Board. About 4 p.m. one lone chum struggled past Goldstream bridge.

King reported that the fish were moving into the river rapidly, many of them weighing as much as to 14 pounds. Some have already reached the upstream campsite area.

"He says the salmon have come back home . . . He says those small birds flying over the water are calling other birds to the banquet," replied.

We are watching the salmon-a dozen or more waiting and swimming in one of the lower pools of Goldstream, gathering strength to move upstream.

RELEASE WATER

Early Sunday morning, the Greater Victoria Water Board began releasing eight millio gailons of water into the creek to permit the chum and coho to spawn in its pools.

And now the fish were preparing to complete their journey and to perform their last rite—reproduce their own kind—before dying.

Some were already dead. They lay on their sides in still water with gaping mouths

They had arrived too early to be saved by the life-giving water, withheld by man for two weeks for fear of a water shortage.

Testimony May Lead to Cross

Times News Services

MONTREAL - Police believe they are close to finding the FLQ hideout where kidnapped British envey James Cross is being held following testimony Saturday by confessed kidnapper Bernard Lortie.

Lortie, 19, told a coroner's jury Saturday he and three others seized Pierre Laporte Oct. 10.

Meanwhile in Quebec City today Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said the provincial government has asked that federal troops remain on special duty for another 30 days.

Much Information Gained

Lortie's testimony at the equest was regarded as surprisingly full and one inquest was regarded as surprisingly full and one report said he gave police additional information not disclosed at the public hearing regarding the activities of two cells of the Front de Liberation du Quebec allegedly involved in the kidnapping. inquest

Police indicated they be-lieve Cross—new terrorist photos of the victim give added hope that he is alive and well—is still held somewhere within Montreal city

One report said police were concentrating their hunt in the mid-city area bounded by the north-south streets University and Atwater and the east-west streets of Antoine and Pine.

That area barely misses enclosing Redpath Crescent, the affluent street on the slope of Mount Royal where the British diplomat was taken at gunpoint from his home Oct. 5. Redpath Cres-cent runs northward from

Cross Abductors Named

The Saturday inquest heard evidence from one witness that three men with the Christian names Jacques, Pierre and Alain had been mentioned as the probable abductors of Cross.

Dr. Robert C. Bostrom of geological sciences and Dr. Mehmet A. Sherif of civil engineering think the massive power that moves continents could be harnessed to send garbage and trash deep into the earth.

They suggested that waste which cannot be recycled economically be compacted to make it heavier than water and then sunk in ocean trenches, the earth's deepest places.

These trenches are not only deep, but their bottoms are driving deeper into the earth, they say, as the downward wrinkles in the earth's crust are pushed toward the interior.

The professors say anything dropped into the trenches will, with geologic slowness, be carried many miles into the earth.

"These trenches are the only places on earth where things go down," Bostrom said. "No matter where else you put something—in a mine, on the ordinary ocean bottom—eventually it will come

City Woods Firm Fined $200 For Chips in Upper Harbor

Smith Cedar Products Ltd. was fined $200 by Judge William Ostler this morning in provincial court for polluting waters with cedar chips in violation of the Fisheries Act June 4.

Court was told that chips were spilled into the upper harbor and a portion of Selkirk Water during the loading of a scow from the company's mill by Point Ellice Bridge.

Defence lawyer Robert Hutchison said there were extenuating circumstances. He said the incident took place during the towboat strike when a scow broke loose because tugs were not available to make regular checks on the moorings.

He said, however, the company was entering a plea of guilty because "we are aware of our responsibilities" and the problems of pollution in the Inner Harbor.

He also said a high wind contributed to the spill of cedar chips.

"It can scarcely be said that a state of wind in this area is unusual," Ostler said. "It seems to me these are pretty rough times for fish - one way or another

He said "every effort must be taken" to preserve fish in B.C. waters. Court had been told coho salmon were running in the waters at the time of the spillage of cedar chips.

custody. The cabinet apparently thought as, too, because it summoned him to because it summoned him to be subsided session as soon as the reports were published Friday evening. After a lengthy meeting, McIlraith emerged to tell re-

"It was a grave mistake to say those things but there's not much reaction now since all the action has moved ahead with Lortie's testimony."

The Liberal said he had heard several comments about Higgit including observations that he has "bad luck" with publicity going back to his controversial statement that recognition of mainland China would open a spy's nest in a Chinese embassy o'clock that a lone female chum, without a mate, was seen valiantly struggling past Goldstream bridge.

A prominent NDP parliamentarian said he would still ask McIlraith for an explanation of Higgit's alleged statements.

But the majority of people who waited at or near the bridge returned home disappointed - not knowing that most chums start swimming upstream from the lower pools between dusk and dawn. Some do move during day-light hours but it was too much to expect on the first day.

Many also missed the most s p ectacular sight—the en-vironmental change that took place by mid-morning when the almost dry and silent stream sprang to life as water once again bubbled and splashed over its stones. It was music to the ears.

Now and again, a breeze would dislodge hundreds of leaves from the alder trees. showering them like confetti on the running water.
The kingfisher, conspicuously absent for months, took up positions along the stream. BIRDS EXCITED

The dippers, chunky slate-colored birds, first observed by the old Indian, made their appearance and flew up and down the stream excitingly.

The ravens and crows watched from the treetops high above an eagle circled.

It was as the old Indian had said—nature, the provider, had prepared a banquet.

The dippers would eat the eggs, leaving some to hatch out as frys and to develop as fish. The crows, seagulls, the eagles and various forms of sea life would feast on the dead salmon.

Man, the greatest predator, ould have his share in time, And so Goldstream came to life again and that's the way it should be all the year

Egypt Promotes Arab Federation

Egypt is planning to federate with Sudan and Libya to form "a nucleus for the unity of the Arab world" in north-east Africa, It is Cairo's second such attempt to put to put togetser a greater Arab

The late President Nasser failed in the first attempt, a federation with Syrian and Yemen that was formed in 1958. It existed mostly on påper, and was broken up by Syria in September, 1961. Egypt's official name remains the United Arab Republic, a remnant of that try at union.

Nasser's successor, Anwar Sadat President Jaafar el Numairi of Sudan and Col. Muammar Kadafi, leader of Libya's military regime, announced plans for the new merger early today after a conference in Cairo. A communique said it "will be a nucleus for the unity of the Arab world, in affirmation of Arab destiny."

No target date was given for putting the federation into operation.

FACES PROBLEMS

"The Arab world is facing internal as well as external attempts to liquidate the revolutionary tide," it said, adding that the confederation was necessitated also by the death of Nasser, "whose mere presence in the Arab struggle with Israel was a sufficient symbol of unity for the Arab symbol of unity for the Arab eoples."

Under the plan, called the Tripoli Charter in honor of a conference Nasser, Kadafi and Numairi held there this year, a tripartite command will first consolidate and political systems in the countries and co-ordinate their policies, the communique said. The command will set up three-sided boards to govern the confederation later, in-

Berger said hospitals have enough fuel to operate for about five days.

Two main issues of the strike are wage parity for engineers with other certified tradesmen and hours of work. The union is prepared to submit the wage issue to arbitration, as recommended earlier by government media-tay Ed Sims, but the B.C. Hospitals Association is not. Engineers how work 40 hours a week, while other employees work a 38-hour week, and are to get a 37½-hour week effective In 1.

hour week exective Jan, 1.

The union's position is that the work-week issue should not go to arbitration because the benefit has already gone to other workers.

RECORD PAYMENTS

Also today, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said that British Columbia Hospital insurance service payments for hospital care are expected to reach $181 million in 1970, $23 million more than last year's record high.

"Salaries for public general hospital employees alone are estimated at $137 million compared to $118 million in 1969, an increase of $1 1969, an increase of $19 million," Loffmark said in a press release.

Total staff employed by time equivalent of 21,000 and average number of daily in-patients is 9,000, he said.

In 1970 there have been 13 hospital projects completed for a total of 518 new beds at a total cost of $17.3 million. Another 1,116 beds are currently under construction in 15 separate projects. Six more projects involving 365 beds are at the tendering

Mrs. Cross Seeks Rest And Privacy in Bern

BERN, Switzerland (CP) — Barbara Cross, wife of the British diplomat kidnapped in Canada, and her daughter Sugar her daughter Susan are staying privately with the British ambassa-dor in Bern, Eric Midgley, the British embassy announced today.

British sources indicated that Mrs. Cross was beginning to crack under the strain of awaiting news of her husband. They said the sole reason for her visit to Switzerland was to seek "rest and quiet."

They dismissed speculation that her trip may be part of an impending deal for the release of Cross. The Swiss government said it is not involved and the British sources commented: "You can rule that out. You should look to Canada for the next developments."

The brief announcement added "She is grateful to the news media for their forbearance and hopes that all concerned will continue to respect her privacy."

Their departure from Montreal Friday was secret.

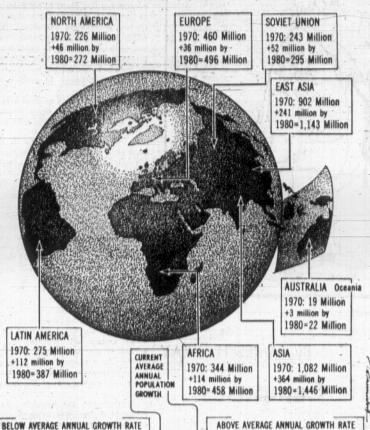

James Cross, a senior British trade representative, was kidnapped from his home in Montreal Oct. 5 by the Front de Liberation du Quebec.

The London Daily Express quotes unidentified Canadian sources as saying that Cross may be reunited with his wife outside Canada.

"A deal with the kidnappers is seen as a distinct possibility," the paper said in a Montreal dispatch.

A book published by the Population Council and the International Institute for the Study of Human Reproduction of Columbia University out-lines the increasingly alarming problem of the world's population bomb.

The problem is clearly ilustrated when one considers that, while growth of one billion persons is expected over the next 10 years, the last increase of a billion people took 20 years. In 1950, the world's population was just over 2.5 billion.

The Population Council's book, called "Population and Family Planning Programs: A Factbook." notes that the population is growing at a current rate of 1,9 per cent on a world wide basis.

In the more developed parts of the world where birth rates are comparatively low and incomes comparatively high, the current population is under 1.1 billion and will rise to more than 1.2 billion by 1980. The countries in the world that can least afford higher population growths, the underdeveloped ones with lower incomes, are going to shoulder the greatest burden. Their population will grow billion to a projected 3.3 billion in 1980.

Those figures represent an approximate population growth rate of 1.2 per cent for the less developed countries.

Europe has the lowest growth rate — less that 1 per cent. But even with that low rate of population increase, the current estimated 460

Africa, with a current population of 344 million, is growing at a rate of 2.4 per cent a year, which will give it 458 million in a decade. North America has a population growth rate of 1.4 per cent, which will make the figures in the United States and Canada rise from 226 million now to 272 million by 1980.

A First for Canada?

THERE WAS IRONY AND PERhaps even an element of prophecy in some of the remarks of Prime Minister Trudeau in the recent debate on the Speech from the Throne, for he employed phrases which in the light of later developments carried a much wider meaning.

In referring to scheduled amendments to the Criminal Code, for instance, Mr. Trudeau reminded the House in his speech on October 9 that "to improve and strengthen the climate of liberty and the tradition of a fair and just administration of the laws of this land, we shall introduce provisions respecting bail and pre-trial detention . .

The promise was, of course, in connection with Justice Minister Turner's proposed legislation to protect persons charged with offences and to achieve greater equality between rich and poor individuals who come before the courts. But as events transpired, exactly one week later, on October 16, Mr. Trudeau was broadcasting his historic announcement that the existing protections of bail and habeas corpus were to be suspended under the War Measures Act. The new situation created by the FLQ had resulted in action that reversed the original intent of the Prime Minister's comments.

Again, referring in the Throne Speech debate to the "ingredients of human dignity," Mr. Trudeau noted with pleasure that "fortunately. most of them are present in Canada-individual liberty, the several rights and freedoms spelled out in the Canadian Bill of Rights . . . " Only seven days later events caused him to announce the new regulations which, for persons suspected of FLQ-type crimes, would take priority over the protections of the Bill of Rights.

The suggestion of prophecy came in Mr. Trudeau's remarks regarding the government's general approach to national problems in the light of "the violence which is now so familiar to so many countries and is no stranger to Canada." He spoke of "our strong belief that liberty and anarchy are contradictory, that democracy and violence cannot co-exist, that our freedom is dependent upon wise restraints." These are solid philosophical truths, of course. But did their expression in terms of "wise restraints" indicate that on October 9 Mr. Trudeau was already revolving in his mind the possibility of the need for tough measures-announced seven days later-to meet the mounting threats? (Mr. Cross had been kidnapped on October 5, but Mr. Laporte was not abducted until October 10, the day after Mr. Trudeau spoke.)

This is a situation which, un-

There is no thought in noting these dramatic parallels that Mr. Trudeau had any liking for the legal changes he was to initiate to cope with what he and Quebec's Premier Bourassa saw as a serious threat to organized democratic government. Mr. Trudeau's writings-indeed the whole course of his early lifetestify to his devotion to individual rights and freedoms. In his announcement of October 16 that the government had invoked the War Measures Act and suspended the Bill of Rights at 4 a.m., he made it plain that "the government is most reluctant to seek such powers," and that "I find them as distaseful as I am sure do you."

"The government," he said, "recognizes its grave responsibilities in interfering in certain cases with civil liberties, and that it remains answerable to the people of Canada for its actions." Mr. Trudeau is under no misapprehension as to the importance of the concepts and liberties with which he is engaged. There was public reassurance in his promise that "the government will revoke this proclamation as soon as possible.'

But he coupled his atatement, even in this moment of regret at having to impose the new restrictions, with intimations that there would be immediate consideration of a "statute which may be required in the present circumstances." That consideration has led, of course, to the new legislation which, while of a "less comprehensive nature," is still a potentially very dangerous suspension of traditional human rights.

What began as an extraordinary, short-term measure to meet an apparently desperate emergency, is already being considered as permanent legislation to the same effect. Permanent Canadian legislation for a permanent desperate Canadian crisis? Here we get on to very dangerous ground.

Activist Flops on Prairie Campuses

SoonER or later the facts come out; and the facts now emerging demonstrate that the students' protest movement on the Prairies mainly sound and fury signifying nething. What seems to have been happening was this through an all-en-. compassing apathy a miniscule core of activists got into key positions in students' organizations and by

Gray sheer noise connec everybody into thinking they reflected student opinion. Recent developments on Prairie campuses have exploded that

The activists got their programs off to fast starts in Edmonton and Calgary, They staged rock festivals and imported high-priced American agitators to make speeches to the students.

In Calgary the rock festival was such box office bomb that it brought down the executive of the students' union. It was that executive which dug down for a whopping $2,500 to import Abbie Hoffman of the Chicago seven and Dr. Benjamin Spock for speaking engage-ments. Neither created the kind of interest the activists had expected, even among the ultra conservative students.

The combination of the rock festival financial bath and the Hoffman-Spock affair triggered a protest that unhorsed the student council. A new election has been called in which it is the antiactivists who are putting slates together, Election slogans ignore Vietnam, drugs, police and other American issues and "responsible administration of student affairs.'

A somewhat similar situation has developed in Winnipeg where the president of the atudents' union at the University of Manitoba has complained that his organization has become so irrelevant that it ought to disband. He introduced a motion calling for just that at the union executive meeting held last

From the uproar in Winnipeg and even in Parliament, the importation of Rae Hewitt, the Black Panther leader, for a speaking engagement in Winnipeg is hardly indicative of apathy. But it is held that it is the apathy of the students toward their union which has enabled autonomous speakers' committee to bring in speakers the students are not interested in hearing. Somewhat over a fifth of the committee's $5,000 budget will go to Hewitt.

Disinterested

While their elders are concerned about Hewitt, and his possible violation of the War Measures Act, the students themselves could care less. It has been that way all year, When nominations were called at school opening to fill 20 places on the executive, only 12 names were put in from among 14,500 undergraduates.

To manage students affairs, President Lyon is agitating for the establishment of faculty councils which will concentrate on such things as curriculum improvements and course changes. But no-body seems interested in that idea

'The Students' Union is dead politically."

From all this the reader-viewerlistener could well have concluded that pre-occupation with drug use was the 'in's thing with the student generation. The agitation to legalize marijuana came to resemble a cause celebre. The drum beaters for marijuana got the universities to hold a nation-wide referendum on whether they wanted an easing of restrictions on the use of that drug.

In the totality of its failure, that campaign must have set an all-time record. Over the Prairies the university kids could hardly have cared less.

Less than 15 per cent of the students at the University of Calgary voted, only 17 per cent voted in Winnipeg and 22 per cent in Edmonton. Those who did vote favored easing the laws on pot by about 60 per cent. But 60 per cent of 20 per cent cannot be regarded as anything but an overwhelming rejection of the notion that the campuses are aflame with interest in drugs.

Whatever else can be said about the Prairie undergrads, they are neither trail-blazing pot-lighters for the drug culture, or taking up cudgels for any other wave of the future.

which came to be known as the "Balfour Declaration" and was adopted as policy by the British Government, This stated:

"His Majesty's Government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object, it being clearly understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country."

The document contained the built-in contradiction that establishment of such a national home, if carried to its logical conclusion, could not help but ultimately prejudice the rights of non-Jewish mmunities and it allowed each side in the argument that later evolved to cite the Declaration in support of its own

Opposition

Nevertheless, it soon became apparent that there was opposition in many quarters, with most of it from Arabs who feared they would be disadvantaged. Under subsequent Governments their case came to be embraced by Whitehall and the Mandate High Commission in Jerusalem.

The debate became more heated as Hitler's persecutions greatly intensified pressures for immigration into the mandated area and extensive purchase of land, Religious and political overtones were added by the spread of Nazi propaganda among Palestinian Moslem

It thus became inescapable by 1947 when the UN adopted a resolution establishing the state of Israel (which was promptly recognized by Russia and America) that war would break out between the rival communities originally mentioned by Balfour. This war is still going on, although momentarily held in abeyance save for guerrilla raids.

Conflict was clearly inevitable from other race, no other religion and no other the start because it was patently absurd to support the benevolent idea of giving one people a "national home" in an But his conceptions were in fact as varue as the statement of his policy. One may only hope by now that the world, as it expresses itself through the UN and especially the Security Council will see the hazards of loose wording, a sloppy habit that still persists after 53 years. When the settlement that must be hammered out to end this tragic war is finally achieved, it must be written in such a way that no more dangerous loopholes can lead to dangerous misunderstandings and dangerous conflicts. 'Swingers' and the Sexual Revolution its concepts of planned obsolescence, replaceability, disposable containers, and dischargable spouses has spawned a new form of conspicuous consumption. The desire for sexual variety and the never-ending search for virginal newness have attrac-ted many people to an increasingly popular pastime aptly entitled "swinging."

Swinging can be defined as casual sexual encounters, often with relative strangers partners. Wife swapping and group orgies are not new

What is new is that respectable middle-class people, who a few years back would have been horrified at the thought are now indulging in activities historically coveted only by the wealthy leisure class.

Our modern code of total sexual freedom, the tremendous growth of nude encounter and sensitivity and sensitivity groups, and a lessened fear of pregnancy and venereal dis-ease have all contributed to people's willingness to experi-ment with different forms of sexual behavior.

In Southern California, for example, where these trends often begin, many organiza-tions have sprouted to meet the needs of the ever increasing numbers of swingers. The potentialifies of such enterprises have gone unnoticed by a few

Some seek reassurance bout their masculinity or femininity. There are the tender-minded who, fearing reprisal for their adulterous desires, inveigle their spouses into a reluctant collusion where recrimination is not permissible.

Although the external form of group sexual activities varies considerably, certain basic ground rules are dis-cernible. Emotional involvement and entanglements outside the swinging situation are assiduously avoided.

"We always come to the

"We do our own thing." "If we don't feel like swinging; we don't." "There is no pressure to perform," claims another swinger.

What is most puzzling initially, when one interviews swingers, is the apparent absence of jealousy. Curiously, swingers often describe themselves as having been very jealous of their spouses before they began.

Swinging may be suggested usually by the man - as a possible remedy. However, it is often the woman who subsequently encourages them to continue after the initial

When her spouse was no longer seen as an inhibiting parent but as a person desired and prized by others, she viewed him from a more realistic perspective This woman handled her guilt feelings by splitting, as many swingers do. She found that her previously very strict moral codes were totally invalidated in the permissive company. What we are in many different ways is a unique Canadian business stimulant.

We're all-Canadian. And the services we provide are basic to Canadian business and an integral part of the Canadian way of life. It's possible that thousands of Canadian businesses wouldn't be around if we hadn't been around to help.

To give you an idea of why we think we're unique. We develop sales financing systems — the foundation of IAC - extending sales and inventory credit to manufacturers and retailers. So a dealer can have a complete stock of cars and trucks or mobile homes or snowmobiles for you to choose from; and can offer credit to you at the point of sale.

In this world on the move, more and more machinery and equipment is involved. Whether it be for production, or the cranes, fork lift trucks or trailers to move it, IAC designs the unique financial services to make it all possible.

We provide Canadians with Niagara consumer loans and mortgages; Merit automobile and home insurance protection; Sovereign life insurance, guaranteed annuities, estate planning.

The health of the Canadian economy hinges on credit. Every working day, IAC companies make 6 million in funds available to consumers, business, and industry. We provide financial services totalling $1.5 billion to more than 600,000 individuals and companies, directly or through over 11,000 manufacturers, distributors and dealers handling an almost limitless range of products,

That, briefly, is what we do. What we are is an excited, eager group of people who want to grow and succeed — and to see Canada grow. and succeed.

If you remember nothing else about us, next time you see our name, remember this:

Tremblay had formed a CFIA union while Brunet had taken charge of strike breakers and made sure that real unions stayed out,

The CFIA had also tried to organize Montreal taxi drivers in opposition to the militant Mouvement de Liberation du Taxi. In this effort it re-ceived letters of support from Robert Bourassa and Pierre Laporte, then both candidates to succeed Jean Lesage as leader of the Quebec Liberal

656-2932 Colwood program that would stimulate an interest and understanding in the life of the Indian who celebrated the Potlatch and to surevey some of the Impli-cations of the Potlatch in the life of the Indian in the

The program had its trial run in October. It is now in a second three-week run. "It is second differences run. It is proving so popular we plan to repeat it for a longer period in the new year from Jan, 19 to April 8 and already we are nearly booked up for that run, too," Mrs. Wood says.

In the beginning, well-nown totem pole carver enry Hunt consented to known record for a movie camera some authentic Potlatch dances. His wife Helen also recorded a welcome song that a host tribe would sing as its guests arrived.

Museum docents (volun teers) made replicas of but-ton blankets and Chilkat blankets with long fringes, as well as chief's headdresses, all from authentic designs and symbols.

* * * Last May, through the help of the province's first citizens' fund, Maxine Pape, a Coast Salish Indian, was named Mrs. Wood's educational assistant for a year. It is she who dons the blanket and headdress of the host chief at the Potlatch and who tells the story to the school children.

Her voice is soft but it has an undertone that holds the attention as she weaves her to its climax," Mrs. Wood tells you

The program starts im-mediately a class of children arrives in front of the dance house. They are greeted by Helen Hunt's recorded wel-come chant then, seated on come chant then, seated on the floor, they see a screening of pictures that depict preparations for a Potlatch.

They are told how the hunters went out for game, fishermen to catch fish, women and children to pick berries and how craftsmen created the gifts. Also how the invitation went out for a Potlatch and how guests arrived.

Finally the class is divided nto two-sometimes three tribes. A chief and two attendants are chosen and decked out in blankets and headdresses.

The host tribe goes into the dance dance house. Others tribes headed by their chiefs arrive (through play-acting) by canoe and are welcomed.

Festivities begin. The childresulvities begin. The child-ren play games, watch Henry Hunt's recorded dances, are shown the masks he wears, eat snacks of Potlatch food (smoked salmon and oolican oil) and receive gifts. The day was there it was a wooden amulet necklace with a paint-ed guardian eye, hanging on a leather cord.

The hour-long program concludes as the visiting tribes depart by cance (again in play-acting), the blankets and headdresses are carefully put away and the children go back to their classrooms to write and to talk about the C.D. Concert master was James Potlatch.

Jerry-Built System Plagues Stock Houses

By HOBART ROWEN

WASHINGTON (WP) Wall Street is in trouble— deep trouble. "We are worse off than we were in 1929," says a conservative and highly responsible member of the investment community here.

It's not fear of prices collapsing as they did in the great depression (although there are plenty of economicuncertainties) but awareness that the stock exchanges and the stock-trading system themselves have become

The problem resides in a jerry-built network of badly run brokerage houses, many of them under-capitalized and over-extended, all operating under a loose "self-regula-tion" atmosphere inadequate for modern times.

Today, an investor placing order with his broker to buy shares in an American corporation cannot be abso-lutely sure that the broker will be in business tomorrow. Since the beginning of 1969, 102 New York Stock Exchange member firms out of 630 then in existence have been forced out of business. That's 16 per cent or about one out of every six.

There have been 49 new entries in the business, for a number of NYSE houses is down 9 per cent at 577.

To protect the customers of the liquidated or merged first, the NYSE shelled out $55 million, wiping out the nest-egg set aside for a new building. But now the exchange has run out of emer-gency funds for that purpose.

Right now, the biggest bail-out operation of all is being attempted, a rescue operation of Goodbody and Co., the fifth biggest firm in the country with 225,000 customers and 95 offices. To bring this off, the NYSE will have to assess its members $30 million to pay off Goodbody's debts, at which point it will be absorbed by the No. 1 brokerage

In the last year or so, many prompted by their own con-scientious brokers), have quietly been taking their stocks and bonds out of their brokers' hands, and placing them in their own vaults or secure places.

The securities business had always depended for working capital on money left by customers (often with no interest), and on their securities which could be lent to other brokers. But today's customer, if he's smart, plays it scared, if he sells, he wants the cash; if he buys, he wants the securities.

There are other reasons for a shortage of capital, few of which reflect credit on the industry or the SEC. Some brokers' capital was eroded brokers capital was eroded by unhappy speculation that turned sour in the 1969-70 bear market. These are the same fellows who tell you what to buy and sell.

But more significantly, there was an orgy of expan-sion into fancy offices and branches. The name of the and game was sell, sell, sell—and this brought countless un-trained incompetents into the business as "registered representatives." Almost any retired army colonel or un-employed shoe salesman peddle securities-and did.

Powers of the SEC in this defined; in reality, it is a much weaker agency than many people suppose. The SEC is really much like an unarmed cop patrolling

But even a cop can blow a whistle: It seems clear that the SEC should have questioned the practice under which brokers accept loans (in the form of subordinated debentures) as part of their capital structure. This is temporary, not permanent capitalization. Thus, when $8 million of such "capital" was pulled out of Goodbody on a

Snub of Russia Carefully Planned

Winning isn't new to Glen Pierce, but the cheque the 28-year-old Burnaby plumber picked up Sunday was the biggest one of his curling career.

Players with Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens exchange punches, wrestling holds and heated words during melee that broke out in closing reconds of first period of National Hockey League game Sunday in Boston Garden. United dominated play throughout the opening half but failed to capitalize on three excellent scoring opportunities.

On the first one, Bob Bolitho moved right in on the goal and lifted a shot that had goalie Greg Weber beaten, only to hit the crossbar.

INJURED in Sunday's National Football League game against Cincinnati Ben-gals was Buffalo Bills' great running back, O. J. Simpson (above). First reports indicated knee injury was serious and required operation. Team doctor said later, however, Simpson suffered "moderate

Saints of All Sorts Watch Over Kickers

Saints of all sorts watched over National Football League kickers Sunday.

New Orleans Saints upset Detroit Lions 19-17 on a record 63-yard field goal by Tom Dempsey on the last play of the game, And a guardian angel also stayed with Oakland's magnificent "old man," as the Raiders joited Cleveland Browns 23-20 on George Blanda's "short" but equally dramatic 52-yarder.

Dempsey admitted it wasn't an ordinary feat but Detroit Blanda, Oakland's ageless coach Joe Schmidt said the wonder, kicked his 52-yard field

A week earlier, Blanda booted a 48-yarder, also with three seconds to play, as Oakland tied Kansas City Chiefs 17-17.

At Last—Better Safety Features

All automobile dealers are paying greater attention to afety these days. Datsun is no exception. In Japan however they are having to cope with demands for safeguards of a different type. Unlike the car vs. car collision probem common in North America 70% of all accidents in Japan are the car vs. pedestrian type. For this reason Nissan Motor Co. Ltd. conducts "pedestrian crash test" at its proving grounds in Oppama. Trucks are being designed with a guard that will sweep fallen bicycle riders from under the wheels. Outside mirrors are being designed to break away upon impact and all other exterior protrusions must now be flush with the body.

And on this side of the pond Firestone has developed restraining blanket to stop back seat passengers from being thrown forward in the event of an accident. The 'blanket'' is stored in a compartment in the back of the front seat. A collision "sensor" sets off propellent cautridges in pistons which are rigged to the "blanket" and pull it flat against the passengers in the event of an accident. If this device proves successful it can be heralded as another improvement significant of the new felt concern by the manufacturers for the safety of their

Another sensible trend in safety these days is the switch from trailer campers to the much more secure truck mounted campers. We have our own design of to fit the new 1971 Datsun pickups and the old ones as well. And when you're through with the camping season the truck quickly converts to a rugged and versatile 1-ton pick up. The low initial cost, low operating costs and low gas consumption are a few of the reasons why the Datsun pick-up outsells all other import trucks combined.

The 96 horsepower overhead camshaft engine will allow the truck to cruise at speeds up to 70 m.p.h. when necessary or it will dependably pull (or push) large loads at low speeds for long periods of time.

It can haul a ton of practically anything. A ton of hay, a ton of bricks, a ton of camper, Imagine! Just about a ton of anything! Small car economy; big truck guts; that's the new

Indeed, having taken a week off from my chores here, I volunteered to handle the whole job. "I will get a whole bunch of big cardboard boxes," I told my wife, "and on the eve of our departure I will throw everything into these boxes and — hesto! presto!—we'll have it all over with before you can say Jack Robinson."

My wife said several things, none of which sounded at all like Jack Robinson, and began her packing a full two weeks before our move, as she'd planned all along. In no time we were eating off the mantel from paper plates. It's a funny thing that if I were to ask my wife today to be ready to go out to dimner at 7 p.m. on November 15, 1985, she would be 10 minutes late. But when it came to moving all our world! minutes late. But when it came to moving all our worldly goods she was sitting there, waiting, long before the mortgage came through, I guess I will never understand women or the other cosmic mysteries.

G

Two factors team up, it seems to me, to make moving one of the minor agonies for the opposite sex.

One is the obvious fact that someone is going to follow you into the place you're leaving and no woman wants to leave behind even the shadow of a conweb or a smudge of dust. The Queen Mother, herself could move into that nent and my wife would take no more pains than she

There's an incredible chain reaction here. The people following us are, in turn, being followed by another family and so on, like looking into a thousand mirrors. I have it figured out that because we moved there was a kind of mass

The second cause for female torture is that something strange lurks in every woman, a kind of constitutional inability to throw snything away. I looked upon the broken relies of our past with an insatiable urge to call Goodwill or have a delayed Halloween bonfire, but it was not to be. Each three transferred snatived for potential uses, and item was scrutinized, analyzed for potential uses, and salvaged, Indeed, in the very midst of all this confusion my wife went to Goodwill and bought an enormous, ancient, battered rocking chair that would nicely accommodate a rogue elephant. I do not know why she did this and I was smart enough not to ask.

What we did share was that curiously sentimental, poignant moment that always seems to come when you are poignant moment that always seems to come when you are leaving a place in which you have dwelt.

We had thought of the apartment in Dingley Dell as a kind of quaint experience because of the name and because of the amusement it brought people. Some of my eastern friends are convinced that I just made the name up as part of my "Victoria image." But, then, suddenly, everything was out in the van and we paused for that last look around — the beautiful view of the Gorge, the two Mallards we fed each morning; the raucous colony of crows, Bud Sim's little sightseeing boat going by and there was that old, familiar tug that comes with the end of another chapter in your life.

The move in was a lot simpler. There is this nice, little, primitive, nine-hole golf course that's just down the way and Initial reaction to the march-type time, written by Bobby Gimby, was difficult to determine. Some listeners said they weren't wide enough awake to give a fair opinion.

A centennial committee spokesman declined to reveal the fee paid to Gimby for the song, He also wrote the well-known theme song for the 1967 Canadian centennial celebrations.

B. J. Wallace, general chairman of the B.C. centennial '71 committee, said he feels "Go British Col-umbia" hits "just the right note as a stirring, lively theme for our coming year of celebrations."

The song was recorded in Vancouver by the Centennial '71 band and the British Columbia Kids, a group of students m the Sherwood Park School in West Vancouver.

A Circle Of Light

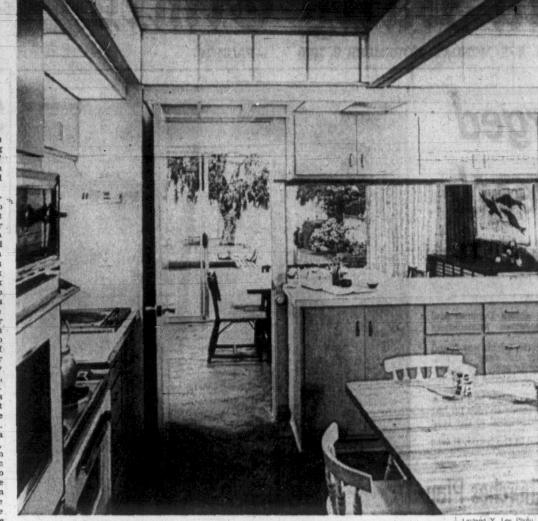

By PAULINE GRAVES

Do you have trouble, when reading recipes, distinguishing between % and % cup? The trouble might not be with your eyes. Perhaps you could use better lighting.

For just about ideal lighting, give a thought to perimeter illumination, that is, around the walls rather than a centre light. With a centre light, which is behind you, you work in your own shadow. Perimeter lights shine down on the work counters instead of the back of your head. An easy way to achieve this kind of lighting is to install fluorescent tubes on the underside of your upper cupboards and shield them from view with a three to four-inch facing. However, if you are planning to build or remodel, this kitchen, by architect Knowlton Fernald,

Jr., A.I.A., offers a good idea. Twelve-inch light boxes travel around the room at ceiling height, in the space usually occupied by soffits. Although they appear to be a series of boxes, of course, they are not. One-by-fours, in front of translucent plastic panels divide the length into twelve-inch squares. The panels diffuse light from fluorescent tubes behind. The underside receives the same design treatment, and light shines down on the counters and out at ceiling Perimeter lighting makes this kitchen much brighter-and recipes easier to read. The shadows that often get in the way in a centre-lit room are eliminated.

Horseradish Due for a Boost in Status

It is time we brought it back into everyday living. Its health promoting virtues are as great now as in the days of sailing ships, when the root was prized as an anti-

In a book written in 1888 by Peter Henderson of the (later) world renowned New York seed firm, we find that over 500 acres of horseradish were grown annually in the vicinity of New York at a "very good profit."

The roots are harvested in late fall. We see them in Chinese vegetable stores in small bundles of creamy white roots somewhat re

I hope you can help me solve a problem I have with fitting slacks. I have a very flat derriere and because of this, I always have a droopy sort of swag at the back of my slacks where the back of the leg begins. I've been sewing for 25 years, and it is the only fitting problem I haven't mastered.—Mrs. S.P.:

There is too much fabric in the back of your slacks for your particular figure. First, if there are two darts at the back or just one large one, eliminate at least half of the nount of fabric taken out in rts. This gives you too much shaping at the end of the darts. Any additional fabric can be taken out at the side seam, taking more out of the back than the front.

The second important adjustment is to take a fold, approximately one-quarter to three-eighths of an inch deep, in your pattern. Begin this fold at the centre back seam about 3 inches below the waistline, tapering to nothing at the side seam. This

Projects for Those Rainy Days

By HILDA BEASTALL

A project for teachers, and mothers, of young children during rainy days of fall needs to be of continuing interest. If it adds knowledge of everyday items which will be of value to them later in their lives, the project can be labelled a success.

The growing of a piece of root ginger into a house plant is one such project. Ginger is a common enough product today; present in most homes either as a powdered ingredient for gingerbread, crystalized as a conserve, or a flavoring of ginger ale.

The fact that such various foods owe their ginger flavor to the root of a plant which they can grow themselves would be a memorable experience for six-year-olds.

All that is needed is pieces of green Hilda ginger root showing knobby buds. Set each piece into a three-inch flower pot of sandy soil, indoors in a warm place. Keep it slightly damp until growth shows, gradually increasing the amount of water but never having the pot of soil wet and

The same general growing conditions apply to most of the things mentioned here. The child will begin to realize that other climates and countries contribute to his well being when he is told that these plants cannot grow outdoors here but do so where they grow the food he buys in the stores.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

The seeds of orange, lemon and grapefruit will produce little trees indoors of sufficient interest for two or three years. Some may flower with that strong citrus perfume never to be forgotten.

Occasionally a fruit will form, though seldom of an edible nature since the orchard trees for commercial crops are grafted named varieties as are our British Columbia tree

Avocado stones may take four months to sprout even when set into damp, warm sand and peat. A three-inch pot is suitable for most of these plants for the first six months, then put into larger pots at their various root systems seem to indicate. Don't overpot, for a large area of damp soil unfilled by growing roots will remain cold and uncongenial for these semi tropical plants.

An avocado grows quickly to a young tree even in a pot and so has a limited life as a house plant.

Even the top slice of a pinapple fruit with its tuft of leaves will form roots, grow a plant, and possibly produce a small pineapple fruit in its second year.

These possibilities should trigger a number of other projects of vast interest to youngsters, instructing them visually in the wonders of their environment. To know something of the world around them is the beginning of respect, tolerance and possibly even of eventual under-tank that has been doaded with all sorts of gear to make do almost everything a diver can do and go deeper into the ocean.

The tracks permit the creature to traverse even the most treacherous sea terrain. Its TV cameras, one on a track that rolls to and fro, and the other on a movable boom, can see in 360-degree radius with the aid of lights attached to the body of RUM.

One of the lights is infrared. The sonar equipment tells the surface operator what lies in the path of the monster, including obstacles that might be out of range of the TV cameras. The huge, movable boom with a hand-like protuberance can exert 50 pounds of pressure in any direction and can lift objects weighing up to 1,000 pounds.

The whole thing weighs 13,000 pounds submerged and authorities say it can go to a depth of 6,000 feet or more without being affected by the pressure. A man in a diver's suit can't go below about 2;500 feet. So far, RUM has logged about 10 miles on the bottom off the coast of San Diego and has successfully been tested as low as 3,300 feet.

To make the thing operate, however, you need ORB — an oceanographic research buoy that floats along on the surface.

Dr. Victor C. Anderson, associate director of the Marine Physical Laboratory at Scripps, says the RUM-ORB combination can be used to inspect oil blowouts like the one last year that fouled beaches in the Santa Barbara Channel.

CRYPTIC CROSSWORD

By FRED L. KARPIN

The deal diagrammed today is a tough one to play properly, as is attested to by the fact that when it arose in a recent duplicate game, each South declarer who arrived at a four heart contract went down. Actually, the contract should have been fulfilled. The clue to the winning line of play could have been found by correctly interpreting West's bidding. The bidding and play presented here occurred at one of the tables.

Declarer won the opening lead with his king of clubs after which he cashed the queen, ace, king of trumps, gathering in the adversely held pieces. When he then led his remaining club, he re-cieved the disheartening news that East had started with five clubs; and hence, South's chances of developing an extra club trick had just vanished. Upon winning the trick with dummy's ace, he then cashed the club queen, discarding the two of spades from his own hand. Next came the ace of diamonds, and this was fol-lowed by the diamond jack, East taking the trick with his queen, East returned a club, South ruffing with his last South ruffing with his last trump. West's two spade jump overcall had shown a respectable six-card suit. And when he elected to open the club six the chances were strong that West's club was a singleton. Thus South should have abandoned the hope of establishing the board's club suit—and should, instead, diamond suit.

The opening club lead should have been caputured by dummy's ace. Then would come three rounds of trumps, after which the ace and jack of diamonds would be played East winning the latter lead.
Presumably the defenders would then cash two spade

Tonight's Top Television Shows

BEAUTY PAGEANT SPECIAL. 6:30 p.m., Channel 8. For the 24th consecutive year the Miss Canada Pageant is held in Toronto. This year it is being telecast live in a 90-minute show. Providing the entertainment are singer Gene MacLellan, Jackie and Lindsey, and the Doug Riley singers.

HERE'S LUCY. 7 p.m., Channel 6: 8:30 p.m., Channel 7. Vincent Price stars in two of his best known images, the horror actor and the art connoisseur. Lucy visits his home to get some art advice, then is led (by her own imagination) to believe that he really is a mad scientist looking for a brain transplant subject.

GUNSMOKE 7:30 p.m., Channel 7. This is a well-scripted tale of the actor who made his biggest mistake when he started to of the actor who made his orgest mistake when he attered to believe his own publicity. The actor here is a post-adolescent with a slightly addled brain. When he accidentally outshoots a notorious gun-fighter, he achives instant fame. Then, enter publicity, in the person of a journalist who sees in the lad some great copy opportunity. He turns the boy into a swaggering braggart, an attitude that's sure to make him a most desirable taxes.

ROWAN AND MARTIN'S LAUGH-IN. 8 p.m., Channel 5. Carl Reiner joins the regular cast, cavorting in and out of almost every scene and sometimes distracting us by appearing with and without his hair piece. Among his dozen parts are Marty Farkel, William Shakespeare, a honeymooner, a sportscaster and the resigning half of a famous TV news team.

REALITIES 9 p.m., Channel 9. "Banks and the Poor." Here is a program that doubtless would never get on the commercial networks It is a study of the less palatable workings of the American banking system, that of credit policies in poverty areas, particularly in ghetto housing. Chase Manhattan board chairman David Rockefeller is on hand to defend the banking

MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES. 9 p.m. Channel 5. "Sergeants 3" (1962) rerun. The networks seem to be leaning more and more on movie reruns this season, with this one being the second in two days, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Peter Lawford are the three non-coms in the Western comedy-adventure. Sammy Davis Jr. joins them as an ex-slave rescued by the trio in the course of their adventures amidst dancing girls, blood-eyed Indians and sundry characters of the old West. Featured are Joey Biship, Buddy Lester, Ruta Lee, Henry Silva and Philip, Dennis and Lindsay Crosby.

THE YOUNG LAWYERS, 9:45 p.m., Channel 4. Never let it be said that this series would deny its audience the most sensitive subjects in the legal spectrum. It has used the oftargued responsibility of the legal practitioner to defend to the best of his ability, and the law's safeguards and guarantees obviously guilty defendants such as radical rioters, political nbers, murderers and rapists. But this time the program oses a police officer-accused of brutality. Attorney Silverman operations, but the program is a definite swipe at the men in the money market who seem to prefer dellars to human values.

1970 EVINRUDE MOTORS

word electrocardiogram comes from three Greek words: electro concerns electricity, cardio, or kardio as it is sometimes spelled. refers to the heart, and gram means a sort of picture. It is often referred to as an ECG or EKG, for short. The machine that makes the electrocardiogram is called an electrocardiograph, from graphein, to write.

What happens is that as the heart contracts and relaxes electric currents are formed, and these are recorded on a moving piece of paper. Actually, today some 10 readings are usually taken, each recording from a different part of the chest wall. When there is an irregularity in the steady rhythm of the heart meaning that a part of the heart muscle is not working properly, there will be a jog or irregularity, in the lines on the paper

An expert can diagnose many abnormalities by looking at an electrocardiogram. The normal ECG is well known, and when present, shows that the heart is beating steadily and regularly. Patients should know that some minor abnormalities do not mean much is wrong and need not cause alarm. For instance, a fairly common type of irregularity is called a "right bundle branch meaning that there is an abnormality in the branch of a special type of tissue that carries the impulse to contract from one end of the heart to the other. This bundle is called the "Bundle of His." The block in this right bundle branch makes the electorcardiogram look abnormal, but it need not be causing any symptoms, and for years, it is not likely to cause the patient

A "left bundle branch block" is more serious, because it can cause symptoms, and someday it may cause the person trouble

* * * Although the ECG is an important and helpful tool in the diagnosis of heart disease, I have seen misinterpretations of the record and its significance by a physician cause the patient much unnecessary treatment and mental distress. One of the best examples to illustrate the fact that the ECG can be misinterpreted even by experts, was that of a middle-aged man ho said he was having severe and typical anginal, or heart, pain in his chest. His eminent physician strongly denied that it was heart pain, because the man's electrocardiogram was always perfectly normal.

The sick man said that he had had many attacks of the pain usually after exercise, and he showed me several ECGs that he had in his briefcase, all of them normal. I felt certain, from his story, that the pain was typical of heart disease, but apparently not of the type that makes an obnormal ECG, unless the record is made when the man's heart is being put under strain.

TV's ex-Batman searched Sunday for his personal batmobile, stolen a day earlier as he attempted to make his Hollywood getaway after getting married. Actor Adam West, who portrayed Batman on television, found after his marriage to Marcelle Lear, 29, that his private car had been stolen. West, 41, said the car was loaded with champagne, flowers and wedding gifts. "Somewhere today is a very drunk, very happy car thief," he said.

Television personality David Frost was forced to leave a London studio Saturday night when pot-smoking Yippies took over the stage during his weekly live Frost Program, watched by 10 million view-ers. Yippie leader Jerry Rubin and 23 of his followers took over the stage. Frost continued with another guest in another studio.

James V. Hall ran unsuccessfully for the Hawaii legi-slature. Needing a job, he placed an ad in the classified sections of the Honolulu papers during the weekend. It reads: "Unemployed politi-cian seeks challenge com-mensurate with qualifications. Good speaker Writer. Edu-cation, High IQ. Low voter appeal."

The judge in the Tate-Lanianca murder trial will decide whether to let cult leader Charles Manson sing in jail. Irving Kanarek, attorney for the accused mastermind of the seven slayings, asked the Los Angeles court last week to order sheriff's depu-ties to "cease and desist from prohibiting the defendant from singing in the jall at reasonable hours and in a reasonable fashion."

Manson said. "Singing allows me to express myself and allows me to relax.'

Pope Paul was booed by a group of discontented shantydwellers during his Sunday noon blessing. Two young Fascists chained themselves to a lamppost near the obelisk in St. Peter's Square. In a third and separate demonstration during the mid-day ceremony, a group of Roman Catholics displayed placards calling for a referendum if the Italian parliament legalizes divorce, as is expected before the end of the year.

The sixth-ranked Indians ran their conference record 6-

Plunkett, Stanford's senior quarterback, threw his fourth touchdown pass of the day to bring the Indians from behind late in the televised game.

PLACE TO SHOVE THAT GARBAGE

SEATTLE (AP) — There's a way to get rid of solid waste so it won't be seen again for at least 50 million years, two University of Washington professors say.

Dr. Robert C. Bostrom of geological sciences and Dr. Mehmet A. Sherif of civil engineering think the massive power that moves continents could be harnessed to send garbage and trash deep

They suggested that waste which cannot be recycled economically be compacted to make it heavier than water and then sunk in ocean trenches, the earth's deepest places.

These trenches are not only deep, but their bottoms are driving deeper into the earth, they say, as the downward wrinkles in the earth's crust are pushed toward the interior

The professors say anything dropped into the trenches will, with geologic slowness, be carried many miles into the earth.

These trenches are the only places on earth where things go down," Bostrom said. "No matter where else you put something—in a mine, on the ordinary ocean bottom—eventually it will come

City Woods Firm Fined $200 For Chips in Upper Harbor

Smith Cedar Products Ltd, was fined $200 by Judge William Ostler this morning in provincial court for polluting waters with cedar chips in violation of the Fisheries Act June 4.

Court was told that chips were spilled into the upper harbor and a portion of Selkirk Water during the loading of a scow from the company's mill by Point Ellice Bridge.

Defence lawver Robert Hutchison said there extenuating circumstances. He said the incident took place during the towhoat strike when a scow broke loose because tugs were not available to make regular checks on the moorings

He said, however, the company was entering a

plea of guilty because "we are aware of our responsibilities" and the problems of pollution in the Inner Harbor.

He also said a high wind contributed to the spill of cedar chips.

"It can scarcely be said that a state of wind in this area is unusual," Ostler said.

"It seems to me these are pretty rough times for fish - one way or another.

He said "every effort must be taken" to preserve fish in B.C. waters. Court had been told coho salmon were running in the waters at the time of the spillage of cedar chips.

Many also missed the most s p ectacular sight—the en-vironmental change that took place by mid-morning when the almost dry and silent stream sprang to life as water once again bubbled and was music to the ears.

Now and again, a breeze would dislodge hundreds of leaves from the alder trees, showering them like confetti on the running water.

The kingfisher, conspicu-ously absent for months, took up positions along the stream. BIRDS EXCITED

The dippers, chunky slate-colored birds, first observed by the old Indian, made their appearance and flew up and down the stream excitingly. The ravens and crows watched from the treetops and high above an eagle circled. It was as the old Indian had said—nature, the provider, had prepared a banquet.

The dippers would eat the eggs, leaving some to hatch out as frys and to develop as fish. The crows, seagulls, the eagles and various forms of sea life would feast on the dead salmon.

Man, the greatest predator, would have his share in time And so Goldstream came to life again and that's the way it should be all the year

Egypt Promotes Arab Federation

By The Associated Press

Egypt is planning to federate with Sudan and Libya to form "a nucleus for the unity of the Arab world" in north-east. Africa, It is Cairo's second such attempt to put to put togetser a greater Arab

The late President Nasser failed in the first attempt, a federation with Syrian and Yemen that was formed in 1958. It existed mostly on paper, and was broken up by Syria in September, 1961. Egypt's official name remains the United Arab Republic, a remnant of that try at union. Nasser's successor, Anwar Sadat President Jaafar Numairi of Sudan and Col. Muammar Kadafi, leader of Libya's military regime, announced plans for the new merger early today after a conference in Cairo. A communique said it "will be a nucleus for the unity of the Arab world, in affirmation of Arab destiny.

No target date was given for putting the federation into operation FACES PROBLEMS

was necessitated also by the death of Nasser, "whose mere presence in the Arab struggle with Israel was a sufficient symbol of unity for the Arab peoples,"

Under the plan, called the Tripoli Charter in honor of a conference Nasser, Kadafi and Numairi held there this year, a tripartite command will first consolidate and political systems in the countries and co-ordinate their policies, the communique said.

The command will set up three-sided boards to govern the confederation later, in-about five days.

Two main issues of the strike are wage parity for engineers with other certified tradesmen and hours of work.

The union is prepared to submit the wage issue to arbitration, as recommended earlier by government media-tor Ed Sims, but the B.C. Hospitals Association is not. Engineers now work 4thours a week, while other employees work a 38-hour week, and are to get a 37½hour week effective Jan. 1.

The union's position is that the work-week issue should not go to arbitration because the benefit has already gone to other workers.

RECORD PAYMENTS

Also today, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said that British Columbia Hospital insurance service payments for hospital care are expected to reach $181 million in 1970, $23 million more than last year's record high.

'Salaries for public general hospital employees alone are estimated at $137 million compared to $118 million in 1969, an increase of $19 million," Loffmark said in a press release.

Total staff employed by hospitals in 1970 is the full time equivalent of 21,000 and average number of daily in-patients is 9,000, he said.

In 1970 there have been 13 hospital projects completed for a total of 518 new beds at a total cost of $17.3 million. Another 1.116 beds are currently under construction in 15 separate projects. Six more projects involving 365 beds are at the tendering

BERN. Switzerland Barbara Cross, wife of the British diplomat kidnapped in Canada, and her daughter Susan are staying privately with the British ambassa-dor in Bern, Eric Midgley, the British embassy announced today.

British sources indicated that Mrs. Cross was beginning to crack under the strain of awaiting news of her husband. They said the sole reason for her visit to Switzerland was to seek "rest and quiet."

They dismissed speculation that her trip may be part of an impending deal for the release of Cross. The Swiss government said it is not involved and the British sources commented: "You can rule that out. You should look to Canada for the next developments."

The brief announcement added: "She is grateful to the news media for their forbearance and hopes that all concerned will continue to respect her privacy.'

Their departure from Montreal Friday was secret.

James Cross, a senior British trade representative, was kidnapped from his home in Montreal Oct. 5 by the Front de Liberation du Quebec. The London Daily Express quotes unidentified Canadian sources as saying that Cross may be reunited with his wife outside Canada.

"A deal with the kidnappers is seen as a distinct possibility," the paper said in a Montreal dispatch.

MONTREAL - Police believe they are close to finding the FLQ hideout where kidnapped British envoy James Cross is being held following testimony Saturday by confessed kidnapper Bernard Lortie.

Lortie, 19, told a coroner's jury Saturday he and three others seized Pierre Laporte Oct. 10.

Police arrested five other persons on the weekend but it was not immediately known if they were prime suspects in the case.

Much Information Gained

Lortie's testimony at the inquest was regarded as surprisingly full and one report said he gave police additional information not disclosed at the public hearing regarding the activities of two cells of the Front de Liberation du Quebec alleged-involved in the kidnapping. Police indicated they believe Cross—new terrorist photos of the victim give added hope that he is alive and well—is still beld some-where within Montreal city

One report said police were concentrating their hunt in the mid-city area bounded by the north-south streets University and Atwater and the east-west streets of St. Antoine and Pine. That area barely misses enclosing Redpath Crescent, the affluent street on the slope of Mount Royal where the British diplomat was taken at gunpoint from his home Oct. 5. Redpath Cres-cent runs northward from

Cross Abductors Named

The Saturday inquest heard evidence from one witness that three men with the Christian names Jacques, Pierre and Alain had been mentioned as the probable abductors of Cross.

Lortie's arrest came four days after government offer-ed up to $150,000 in rewards for the information in the kidnappings of the two men, both 49 years of age. The biggest break so far in the massive police search resulting from the kidnap-pings came about 7 p.m. Friday, when police sur-rounded an apartment building at 3720 Queen Mary Road and led Lortie out in hand-

Also arrested were Richard Therrien, his sister Colette, and Francine Delisle, all in their early 20s, who rented an apartment in the building in September. Marcel Crampagne, 53, janitor in the apartment building, said Miss Therrien had said she was a teacher, Therien a student and Miss Delisle a nurse. Michel Champagne, 22, son of the janitor, said a girl who lived near Apt. 12 told him she heard the following conversation as police entered:

"You're Lortie."
"No, I'm Bolduc." "No, we know you're Lortie."

The younger Champagne said police handcuffed Lortie's hands behind him, then led him out with his back toward the janitor and his son.

SHOWN PHOTOS

"We had no idea that the guy who kidnapped Laporte was upstairs," said the shaken janitor. "My wife has been sick and nervous ever since." Police later showed the Champagnes about 20 photos, several of women, but "we Warrants were issed Oct. 18, one day after the Laporte slaying, for Paul Rose, 27, and Marc Carbonneau, 37, wanted for kidnapping both Laporte and Cross.

More warrants went out Oct. 23 for Lortie, Jacques Rose, 23, and Francois Simard, 23, for conspiracy to kidnap Laporte.

Testimony May A PLACE TO SHOVE THAT GARBAGE

SEATTLE (AP) — There's a way to get rid of solid waste so it won't be seen again for at least 50 million years, two University of Washington professors say.

Dr. Robert C. Bostrom of geological sciences and Dr. Mehmet A. Sherif of civil engineering think the massive power that moves continents could be harnessed to send garbage and trash deep into the earth.

They suggested that waste which cannot be recycled economically be compacted to make it heavier than water and then sunk in ocean trenches, the earth's deepest places.

These trenches are not only deep, but their bottoms are driving deeper into the earth, they say, as the downward wrinkles in the earth's crust are pushed toward the interior.

The professors say anything dropped into the trenches will, with geologic slowness, be carried many miles into the earth.

"These trenches are the only places on earth where things go down," Bostrom said. "No matter where else you put something—in a mine, on the ordinary ocean bottom-eventually it will come

City Woods Firm Fined $200 Dumping Chips in Upper Harbor

Smith Cedar Products Ltd. was fined $200 by Judge William Ostler this morning in provincial for polluting waters with cedar chips in violation of the Fisheries Act June 4.

Court was told that chips were spilled into the upper harbor and a portion of Selkirk Water during the loading of a scow from the company's mill by Point Ellice Bridge.

Defence lawyer Robert Hutchison said there were extenuating circumstances. He said the incident took place during the towboat strike when a scow broke loose because tugs were not available to make regular checks on the moorings.

He said, however, the company was entering a plea of guilty because "we are aware of our responsibilities" and the problems of pollution in the Inner Harbor.

He also said a high wind contributed to the spill of cedar chips.

"It can scarcely be said that a state of wind in this area is unusual," Ostler said. "It seems to me these are pretty rough times for fish — one way or another."

He said "every effort must be taken" to preserve fish in B.C. waters. Court had been told coho salmon were running in the waters at the time of the spillage of cedar chips.

.500 Sunday. .500 Argos, .250 rarely re Argos, who during the season rarely reached the offensive ex-cellence expected of them, had their Grey Cup hopes deflated in Saturday's EFC sudden-death semi-final by a team that had to rearrange its lineup because of suspensions.

And while the patched-up Montreal offence appeared stronger rather than weaker, the Argonaut offence petered out under a relentless attack by the Alouette defence.

GOODBYE LEO?

Near the end of the game some of the Toronto fans began chanting "Goodbye Leo" to To-ronto coach Leo Cahill but John Bassett, chairman of the board of Argos, squashed rumors that Cahill will be fired.

"He is absolutely not fired," Bassett said. "He has two years to go on his contract and as far as I know, nobody has any intention of firing him."

Bassett paid tribute to Montreal coach Same Etcheverry, who less than a week before the game suspended fullback Dennis Duncan, the team's top ground gainer, and Bob Mc-Carthy, a wide receiver, for breaking club curfew regulations. "I want to pay tribute to the guts Etcheverry showed in tak-ing disciplinary action against two of his regulars at that criti-cal time." Bassett said. "In my view it was a gutsy move and was fantastic for football."

It was not only a "gutsy move" for Etcheverry but the whole season was a triumph for the first-year Montreal coach who brought 18 new players this year to a club that finished last in the East for the three pre-vious years.

SPRINGATE SPARKLES

Many of these new players played key roles Sunday in submerging the Argos. One, George Springate, the 32-year-old place-kicking specialist and a Liberal member of the Quebec national assembly, kicked three field goals and converted the Alouettes' only touchdown by wide Tom Pullen. was obtained in a trade with Ottawa Rough Riders.

Agony for Milady

By Jack Scott_

We'll want you to come out to tea, of course, as soon as we're settled in, but, meantime, this is just to report that things are going well in our new, wee house in Metchosin. It's like being in Mexico to live in Metchosin. The cocks begin to

When I say "settled in" I really mean when my wife gets out of shock. Moving is very hard on

We had thought of the apartment in Dingley Dell as a kind of quaint experience because of the name and because of the amusement it brought people. Smith Cedar Products Ltd. was fined $200 by Judge William Ostler this morning in provincial court for polluting waters with cedar chips in violation of the Fisheries Act June 4,
